FMA REGISTER

CONNECTING WORLD LEADING MEDICAL AND SCIENCE EXPERTISE WITHIN THE GAME, WITH FAN BASES AND GRASSROOTS FOOTBALL

An elite register of medical and science practitioners who have experience and expertise in the professional football arena.

The FMA Register is the perfect platform for members to highlight and promote their skills and expertise to colleagues within the game, fan bases and grassroots football.

As an elite register listing the FMA Register is not open to any practitioner. Registrants must have worked in a professional capacity with players or a club in the top 5 tiers in English football, the top 2 tiers in Scotland or the FA WSL1.

Eligible practitioners include doctor, physiotherapists, sports therapist, optometrist, nutritionist, soft tissue therapist, sports psychologist, podiatrist, osteopath, chiropractor, consultant surgeon, consultant physician, sports rehabilitator.

“The FMA website reaches on average 11,000 unique users weekly, which is a terrific audience to engage with.

We are busy promoting the FMA Register even further, with the help of 100,000’s of contacts through various associations within the game and company databases”.

“ This is a brilliant project that will put us in touch personally with fans and grassroots football. Having been involved in Private Practice alongside Football for many years, I am convinced that this will be a resounding success. This is a great initiative.’

Derek Wright - Head Physiotherapist Newcastle United FC

“We have received an incredible response so far and this is a remarkable initiative that will allow grassroots players to access personnel who are a part of their local football team and who treat their favourite player! At the same time this will help keep people healthy and playing the game for longer!” adds Angela.

The first stage of the register is now well underway and has already created a huge amount of interest both within and beyond the football industry.

Practitioners have been keen to join and update their profile on the register with over 200 new entries within the first month - clearly this has been a hit!

The second phase, to invite health care providers to join the register, is also underway and should see a swathe of members from this sector in the coming weeks.

You can keep up to date with all the developments, which are highlighted almost daily on our Register Latest News page, found on our website www.footballmedic.co.uk.

The Register is proving to be an attractive medium for those in practice to highlight

“ I work in the professional game and see patients in my Clinic as well. Fans who come to see me love to talk about the Club as it's the life blood of our community. This Register will open up the same opportunity for fans and practitioners across the country’

Dave Tinker - Podiatrist
Burnley Football Club, Private Practitioner

their clinics, services and personal profile and promote their skills to potential clients which has never been easier to access.

Colleagues currently working within the game are already using this register as a resource to find practitioners either with specialisms they are in need of or to cover absence or address staffing levels while appointments are pending.

In addition, practitioners can further promote their clinical specialty by submitting articles of interest for our quarterly magazine 'Football Medic &

Scientist' or as a contribution to our CPD programme.

If you are eligible to join the register and would like to know more, please go to our website www.footballmedic.co.uk/fmaregister or call me on 07432 360789 or 0333 4567897.

“ Taking up private practice is the natural progression for most of us as we leave the game. We genuinely do want to give something back to football and working with the register and at grassroots level gives us the perfect opportunity’.

Alan Smith - Head Physiotherapist
Aston Villa FC

FMA's newest member of staff Angela Walton reflects on her role within the association.

“Having joined the Football Medical Association (FMA) in January, I feel very privileged to be a part of such a fantastic association which serves to improve standards throughout medicine and science in professional football. In taking up the post of project lead I have already witnessed huge support for this initiative, with new and existing members joining daily.”
